4. THE NEXT STEPS IN THE PROCESS

4.1 Shortlisting

Shortlisting is used at Aarhus University. This means that after receiving the recommendation from the grant recipient, the head of department, assisted by the chair of the assessment committee, prepares a short list of the applicants who are the best overall match for the department's and the faculty's recruitment needs and who possess the qualifications, competencies, experience and potential described in the job advertisement. Through the shortlisting process, applicants are selected to receive a thorough assessment of their professional qualifications. These applicants will then be assessed by the assessment committee.

HR is responsible for informing applicants whose applications are not shortlisted for assessment immediately after the shortlist has been determined. Final rejections are sent at the conclusion of the recruitment process.

4.2 Assessment committee – tasks and process

Applicants who are selected for assessment after shortlisting are informed of the composition of the assessment committee by HR. The identity of the applicants is confidential. The individual applicants thus do not receive information about the names of the other applicants for the position.

As a general rule, the assessment committee consists of at least one internal person at associate professor level or above. This person is chair of the assessment committee.

There must be no contact between the members of the assessment committee and the individual applicants in matters of relevance to the assessment.

The assessment committee must prepare individual written assessments of all applicants on the shortlist. The committee must consider which applicants it considers to be qualified or not qualified in regard to research, teaching and/or public-sector consultancy tasks, as well as in relation to the other academic qualification requirements specified in the job advertisement.

Once the assessment is complete, each applicant receives the assessment of his or her own application. Each applicant will be given an opportunity to comment on the assessment. An applicant may only move forward in the recruitment process if the assessment committee has found the applicant academically qualified for the position.

4.3 Grant recipient - tasks and process

On the background of the assessments, the grant recipient decides which applicants are to be offered an interview. The grant recipient conducts the interviews, and others can be involved as needed.

On the background of the grant recipient's recommendation, the head of department decides which applicant is to be appointed.
